We are constantly looking at ways to spread our message and recruit new task force members.

Survivorship Task Force Update

New Year, New Goals for the Survivorship Task Force! Over the past two months, we have been working to re-engage members and plan exciting projects for 2018. A recent survey of members revealed that over 50% of our members were interested in helping to build a tool that will allow people working in the cancer community to connect with one another. Members were also highly interested in learning about survivorship issues from subject matter experts. To meet these needs, our meetings will now be focused on an educational topic and group discussion for the first half of the meeting. The second half of each meeting will focus on projects and opportunities to do work throughout the state- beginning with the tool to help the cancer community connect. All meetings will be held online only, so that travel time and geographic barriers aren't a concern.

We also want to say a huge thank you to Sandy Priester, who will be stepping down as Chair due to time constraints but plans to stay involved in the task force as a member. Thank you, Sandy, for all of your time and leadership over the past several years!

If you are interested in joining our mailing list, please email Cathy Bledsoe at QualityOfLifeTF@gmail.com.
