

Exploring the needs of Latina breast cancer survivors and their caregivers

We want to hear your story

Researchers from Colorado State University are looking to interview Latinas who are receiving or have received breast cancer treatment within the last four years (2019–present) and a family member who has provided care for a Latina who has had breast cancer.

Each participant will receive an electronic $25 gift card via e-mail for completing the interview.

Interviews will take between 30–60 minutes and you can select for it to happen via phone or online using video in Spanish or English.
